INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS ETHICS CASE COMPETITION (IBECC)

The International Business Ethics Case Competition (IBECC) is the oldest and most distinguished intercollegiate business ethics competition of its kind. IBECC was founded by Thomas I. White and designed with the assistance of Fortune 500 senior executives in 1996.

Each team selects a topic from any area of business ethics and prepares a presentation describing the problem and proposing a solution. Judges listen to the team's presentation, question students and then give the team feedback. Presentations cover the legal, financial and ethical dimensions of the case, but special emphasis is placed on the strength of the ethical analysis of the problem and the ethical acceptability of the solution.

TESTIMONIALS

“As a judge at IBECC, I’ve had a front row seat to this one-of-a-kind event, which gives teams of undergraduate and graduate students the challenge of not only identifying actual business ethics challenges, but also of considering alternatives and recommending solutions. The teams don’t have any ‘special training’ in business ethics, but instead are smart, caring, creative students dealing with real-world problems. These students are our future, and the issue-identification and problem-solving the teams undertake will pay our society dividends in the future. The volunteer judges – business ethics experts, lawyers, financial and business people – give these students real-time feedback and challenge to build their skills and character.”

— Barbara Kipp, retired partner and ethics and compliance officer, PWC

“Participating in IBECC was a transformative event for me as an academic and young professional. Given my previous background in the Humanities and Social Sciences, IBECC empowered me to have a voice on issues of business ethics and to trust my own ability to generate corporate governance solutions. Presenting at IBECC not only welcomed me into a mindful and vitally engaged community, but also opened professional pathways that ultimately led me to a career in impact finance.”

— Kaitlyn Abrams, IBECC 2018, Oxford University, United Kingdom, Montcalm TCR LLC
